

StrandVision Provides Digital signage Services

StrandVision LLC, previously Online-Kiosks (<http://www.online-kiosks.net>), uses a patent-pending web services model to deliver low-cost, high-availability hosted digital signage services to businesses. It is ideal for medical and dental offices (patient education), banks (video merchandising), industrial distributors (vendor-sponsored advertising), employee break rooms (events and benefits) and other business applications.

StrandVision eliminates the need for complex and expensive onsite hardware since it hosts the digital signage service on its servers and delivers content directly over the internet via standard web browser technology to televisions and computer displays in subscribers' offices and businesses.

StrandVision's easy-to-setup and easy-to-update web-based service enables administrators to maintain and quickly distribute text messages and graphics, including advertisements and video content. StrandVision enhances each company's customized content with national and local weather and news, stocks and other information of interest.
